Statement of recognition

Council values the unique status of Aboriginal people as the original owners and custodians of lands and waters including the lands and waters of Penrith City.

Council values the unique status of Torres Strait Islander people as the original owners and custodians of the Torres Strait Islands and surrounding waters.

We work together for a united Australia and city that respects this land of ours, that values the diversity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural heritage, and provides justice and equity for all.

Mayor's message

I'm pleased to present Penrith City Council's Community Engagement Strategy, a document that demonstrates how Council engages with the community.

Engagement is at the very heart of Council's projects and delivery program outcomes; this strategy outlines how we will communicate and engage with our community. It provides transparency and clarity for all stakeholders so they can understand the role they play in the engagement process and at what stage or stages Council will engage with them.

Engagement is fundamentally about seeking better outcomes for everyone. An engaged community that has the knowledge and the ability to provide insights and feedback on the projects or issues that affect the way they live, work or play in our city will lead to better outcomes.

This strategy outlines the steps involved in engagement and identifies stakeholders. It aligns with the IAP2 Public Participation Spectrum model while committing to inclusive participation across our community.

Engagement is something that will continue to evolve – this framework is reviewed every four years, with feedback always welcomed.

Introduction

Community engagement is at the heart of local government. It helps communities to be active participants in shaping their own future and play a part in positive changes. Council has a vital role to play in providing opportunities for people to be involved in creating good public policy and ensuring relevant, quality services.

Penrith City Council is committed to engaging the community in a transparent, accessible, open, and accountable way. The Community Engagement Strategy and Participation Plan 2022–2026, presented in two sections within the document, has been developed in response to increasing community expectations and their right to have a say on Council's decision-making and to align engagement practices with State government legislation.

Glossary

Community

For the purpose of this document, community refers to anyone with an interest in decisions made in Penrith Local Government Area including stakeholders from the public and private sector.

Stakeholder

An individual or group with a strong interest in the decisions of council or directly impacted by their outcomes. Community becomes stakeholders when a project directly affects them.

IAP2

The International Association for Public Participation (IAP2) is an organisation advancing the practice for public participation. IAP2 supports people who implement participation in public decision-making processes.

What is Community Engagement?

Community engagement, also known as 'public participation' is about involving the community in making decisions that shape their City. Engaging people on ideas, issues and opportunities is crucial for building a great City where people want to live, work, and visit.

Robust community engagement is the basis for understanding decisions, sharing perspectives, improving outcomes and building trust between Council, the community and other partners.

Effective engagement will:

- Ensure community needs and expectations are understood and reflected in the decisions and actions of Council
- Result in better, more sustainable decisions
- Build trust and improve accountability through transparency of decision-making
- Value local knowledge and foster local problem-solving
- Improve understanding of Council's planning, prioritising and resourcing
- Identify critical issues and opportunities early
- Optimise use of limited resources and maximise efficient resource allocation
- Feedback to the community the result of the engagement process

Community Engagement Strategy

The Community Engagement Strategy section in this document, outlines Council's approach to engagement. It provides transparency and clarity for all stakeholders so they can understand their role in decisions they are interested in or impacted by, in order to achieve better outcomes for our community and environment.

The strategy defines who, when and how we will engage. The level of community involvement varies depending on the project and the potential impact of the decision.

Legislative requirements

Local Government Act 1993, Section 8A and Section 402A

The council must establish and implement a strategy (its Community Engagement Strategy) based on social justice principles, for engagement with the local community when developing its plans, policies and programs and for the purpose of determining its activities (other than routine administrative matters).

The Children's Guardian Amendment (Child Safe Scheme) Bill 2021

Child Safe Standard 2 – Children participate in decisions affecting them and are taken seriously

Children are safer when organisations teach them about their rights to be heard, listened to and believed. A child safe organisation actively seeks the opinions of children and when doing so considers their age, development, maturity, understanding, abilities and how they communicate. Children are encouraged and supported to regularly contribute to decisions that affect them.

Community Participation Plan

The Community Participation Plan section outlines how you can get involved in local and City-wide land use planning to achieve better outcomes for today as well as the future.

The plan covers legislative requirements for mandatory public engagement for all of Council's planning functions. It builds on the approach established by the Community Engagement Strategy and includes specific information about community participation on planning and development decisions in the Penrith Local Government Area (LGA).

Legislative requirements

The Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 (the EP&A Act)

Our community

A broad range of community voices are required to shape Penrith City, which is why your feedback is important. Listening to residents, rate payers as well as visitors from different age groups, suburbs, wards, cultural background and family life stages helps Council get a better understanding of how a decision affects different people in our community. The more information we have about the impacts of a decision, the closer we are to achieving an outcome that benefits the wider community.

Why participate in engagement?

Participating in community engagement contributes to improving the quality of life for those living in the Penrith local government area (LGA) and has a direct impact on Council planning, facilities management and service delivery. It can be a rewarding and beneficial experience. By getting involved in a decision-making process you can:

- Be a leading voice for the community
- Share ideas, aspirations, concerns, needs and experiences
- Make connections and hear what other residents think
- Find out more information about projects or plans directly from the project team
- Learn about the matters Council must consider before making the decision
- Gain a better understanding of how the outcome of the decision will benefit the wider community

A principles based approach

Council is committed to the following engagement principles based on the social justice principles of equity, access, participation and rights.

What engagement looks like at Penrith City Council

Council makes decisions through local democracy processes which are both representative and participatory.

Representative democracy is the process by which the community elects their local representatives, called Councillors, to be the governing body of the Council. The elected Council develops and implements policies, programs and long-term strategic plans, ensures financial sustainability, monitors performance, and makes decisions to direct and control the affairs of the Council. The elected Council is the final decision maker and is accountable to the community.

Participatory democracy is the process by which community members are actively involved in decisions that affect them. The community can participate through a variety of community engagement processes that influence and shape the elected Council's decisions. Council recognises that people have a right to be informed and to have a say on matters that are important to them, or which have an impact on their daily lives.

The Integrated Planning and Reporting Framework

The role of the community is at the heart of the Integrated Planning and Performance Framework (IP&R). Our engagement is linked to plans, strategies and work outlined in the framework and shows how often we engage around those plans and strategies. Ongoing community engagement and the feedback that people provide establishes the overarching ten year strategic direction of Council through the Community Strategic Plan and develops the four-year Delivery Program of principal activities which ultimately influences our day-to-day activities and service provision through the annual Operational Plan.

How we engage

Our approach to engagement can vary depending on the need and impact of the project and is guided by the IAP2 (International Association of Public Participation) Spectrum.

The role of the community as well as other stakeholders in a decision-making process is identified in five different levels of participation. Each level outlines how you could be engaged and the level of impact your involvement will have on the outcomes of the decision. This is dependent on the goals, timeframes, resources and levels of concern in the decision to be made.

The IAP2 spectrum is recommended by the Office of Local Government for preparation of Community Engagement Strategies. Importantly, the spectrum defines the public's role in any community engagement program and sets out the promise being made to the public at each participation level.

Council will only ask for feedback on decisions where the community or stakeholders can impact the outcome or as required by legislation.

The levels of engagement and how we may engage are outlined below and should be thought of as building blocks; with inform being the first level of engagement, and each progressive level of engagement from consult to empower presenting more opportunity for community participation in the process. Please note that the techniques listed are examples only. Engagement plans are tailored to suit the project needs, stakeholders and level of engagement.

Who we engage with

A vital component of undertaking community engagement includes identifying and understanding who are the key stakeholders who will be impacted by or who have an interest in a decision. Given the extensive scope of Council's work it is necessary that a range of views are heard. This will at times require engaging with communities outside of the LGA. The list of stakeholders is long and varied and by no means definitive. Stakeholders would be determined based on what Council is engaging on.

Inclusive participation

Inclusive participation is ensuring everyone in our community has the opportunity to share their ideas and perspectives through the community engagement process to inform our decision-making.

Council is committed to engaging diverse groups of people, ensuring all voices are heard. We recognise, respect and value differences based on language, ethnicity, age, gender, religion, disability, sexual orientation and other variables that influence personal perspectives and situations.

We understand that different people like to engage in different ways, and what is suitable for one group may not be for others. We continue to look for ways to identify gaps and find solutions in our community engagement approaches.

Community engagement activities will be sensitively planned for the intended audience and mitigate any barriers including:

- Valuing cultural protocols, knowledge and foster local problem-solving.
- Building trust and establishing relationships with diverse communities.
- Information and materials provided in languages other than English and in accessible formats.
- A variety of engagement methods that is tailored, flexible and appropriate for the specific groups.
- Accessible venues and engagement locations.
- Provision for assistance where needed to participate.
- Appropriate time and day for the target groups.

The engagement process and how it informs decision-making

Depending on the project, the final decision-making power can be placed with either community, Councillors, the General Manager, another government agency or a combination of these stakeholders.

Throughout the engagement process there are engagement opportunities to influence the decision. We will clearly explain the level of engagement and influence we are seeking and make sure we keep you updated on the progress of the decision. Reasons that may limit your ability to inform a decision include safety, State or Federal Government legal requirements or other factors which Council cannot influence. For example, sometimes Council will collect comments on behalf of the State Government.

When this happens, we can only forward your comments on. In other cases, Council is given a target – such as a housing development target over five years – which we cannot change. When this happens, we can only consider comments about how to meet the target, but not about whether the target itself is right.

The decision process can be complex. The diagram below highlights the key stages of a decision-making process usually used to prepare a plan, policy, service or strategy. There will be situations where the community can be engaged in greater detail and other instances when there will be limited to no opportunity to be involved.

Evaluation and reporting

Monitoring and reviewing Council's engagement activities is essential in order to identify areas for improvement and to realise goals more efficiently. Council will use a variety of evaluation and reporting methods to assess and communicate its progress including:

- Reviewing the strategy and policy every four years
- Undertaking a community satisfaction survey bi-annually and reporting these outcomes
- Reviewing participation levels in engagement activities
- Reviewing verbal and written feedback from stakeholders on the effectiveness of our engagement activities
- Quantitative and qualitative information collected
- Reporting on Engagement within Annual Report
- Providing feedback on engagement results

Building staff capacity in engagement

Organisational capacity building and training in order to assist in the implementation of this strategy, learning and development opportunities on community engagement practices will be encouraged across the organisation. By promoting these opportunities, Council will continuously build the capacity of the organisation to deliver community engagement by providing staff with the appropriate skills and knowledge to plan for, manage and facilitate engagement activities.

Community Participation Plan

This Community Participation Plan (CPP) outlines how Council and other local determining authorities will engage the Penrith community on planning and development. The CPP also explains how we report and tell our community about decisions. The CPP applies the principles and approach of the Community Engagement Strategy (CES).

The Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 (EP&A Act) requires all planning authorities, including Councils, to prepare a CPP to outline how and when the community will be engaged across planning functions like policy making and assessment. The EP&A Act also sets the minimum notification requirements for planning related projects.

EP&A Act 1979 – Principles of Community Engagement

- The community has a right to be informed about planning matters that affect it
- Council will encourage effective and on-going partnerships with the community to provide meaningful opportunities for community participation in planning
- Planning information will be in plain language, easily accessible and in a form that facilitates community participation in planning
- The community will be given opportunities to participate in strategic planning as early as possible to enable community views to be genuinely considered
- Community participation will be inclusive and Council will actively seek views that are representative of the community
- Members of the community who are affected by proposed major development will be consulted by the proponent before an application for planning approval is made
- Planning decisions will be made in an open and transparent way and the community should be provided with reasons for those decisions (including how community views have been taken into account)
- Community participation methods (and the reasons given for planning decisions) should be appropriate having regard to the significance and likely impact of the proposed development

When the Community Participation Plan doesn't apply

This CPP doesn't apply to all development in Penrith. The NSW State Government and other authorities assess and determine planning and development matters where the impacts of those matters extend beyond Penrith.

For plans or development where Council isn't the determining authority, the relevant authority's Community Participation Plan applies. This CPP also doesn't apply to the non-planning and development related functions of Council.

Levels of engagement for planning and development decisions

The following graphic indicates the levels of engagement Council can provide for different types of plans or development. Council may provide more or less engagement as necessary.

* These terms are from the IAP2 Participation Spectrum on page 14 of the Community Engagement Strategy. The level of engagement will vary to suit each plan or development and the level of community interest.

** For some development types, notification or engagement may not be required. More information on these development types is provided on page 26

A public exhibition is when Council formally seeks comment from the community about a draft plan or development. The community and key stakeholders are encouraged to provide feedback to Council by providing a written submission or by making a verbal submission at a public hearing.

Exhibition timeframes

Council will always exhibit a proposal for the minimum periods required in this CPP and any relevant legislation or environmental planning instrument (EPI). Where there is an inconsistency between this CPP and any relevant legislation or EPI, the requirement in the legislation or EPI will be applied.

The minimum exhibition periods identified in this CPP are in calendar days and include weekends and public holidays.

Extension of exhibition period

An exhibition period may be extended beyond the minimum exhibition periods identified in the CPP if:

The proposed changes, in Council's opinion, may generate adverse impacts, having regard to nature, scale and proposed location.

The exhibition period occurs over 20 December to 10 January. In this instance, the "count" for the number of days a plan or development is exhibited will stop on the 20th and re-start on the 10th.

An exhibition period ends on a weekend or public holiday. In this instance, the exhibition period will end on the next business day.

The proposed planning changes are complex or may affect a significant number of properties.

Submissions

The community can comment on a draft plan or development by making a written submission during a public exhibition period or by providing a verbal submission at a public hearing if one is held (refer to below subsection 'Public hearings').

Written submissions can be sent by email or post to the relevant department of Council. The relevant contact person and submission methods will be identified in the notification/advertisement for the exhibition of the draft plan or development.

Submissions are not considered confidential and may be made publicly available. Personal details will not be made public.

Public hearings

Public hearings will be held:

for all planning proposals to reclassify Council owned land, or at Council's discretion, if a submission is received from the community requesting a public hearing in respect to a draft Planning Proposal.

At a public hearing, you can make a verbal submission that will be recorded and reported to the determining authority in a Public Hearing report, which will be made publicly available. If a public hearing will be held, notification of the date, time and location of the hearing on Council's website and a local newspaper.

How submissions will be considered

Council will review all matters raised in submissions before making a decision on a draft plan or development. All matters raised in submissions will be addressed and reported to the determining authority for its consideration.

If you make a submission on a draft plan, Council will notify you when the matter is going to be reported to the determining authority. You can present directly to the determining authority by registering to speak at a public meeting where the planning matter is reported. You can register to address a meeting on Council's website.

- Make all relevant documents publicly available at Council's Civic Centre
- Advertise the exhibition in a local newspaper
- For certain development proposals, public notice will also be provided at the affected property
